Dr. David C. Korten has over thirty-five years of experience in preeminent business, academic, and international development institutions as well as in contemporary citizen action organizations.

Trained in economics, with M.B.A. and Ph. D. degrees from the Stanford University Graduate School of Business, in 1990 he joined with colleagues from around the world to found the People-Centered Development Forum as a support network for those who were seeking to challenge the dominant development paradigm. He is a Board member of the Business Alliance for Local Living Economies (BALLE) and co-founder and Chair of YES! Magazine and the Positive Futures Network.

“We need to declare our independence from the predatory institutions of Wall Street and bring into being a new economy—locally based, community-oriented, and devoted to creating a better life for all, not simply increasing profits.”

— Economist David Korten
